IMPORTANT DISCLAIMER

Redomiciled is an international banking consultancy focused on banking, payment processing, and international FX solutions.

Any discussions regarding company structures, residency options, or related planning are provided solely to support international banking objectives.

Redomiciled is not a law firm, accounting firm, or tax advisory practice. Where specialist advice is required, we introduce clients to independent third-party lawyers, accountants, incorporation specialists, and tax advisors within our international partner network.

These professionals operate independently, and clients engage them directly. Redomiciled accepts no responsibility or liability for advice or services provided by third-party professionals.

Clients are responsible for obtaining independent legal, accounting, and tax advice relevant to their own circumstances and should always confirm that any proposed structure is appropriate for their personal tax and legal obligations before implementation.
